First Time For Volleyball

It's quite a treat to be "39 years old" and see a volley ball game for the first time, says J. A. Morris, shown here at his farm home near Evergreen. Morris, a Prince Edward county native who spent his early years in Buckingham, has been farming his 229 1/2 acres for "quite a while." He "offered to play volleyball" in last week's high school PTA games, said his church pastor, Rev. V. L. Hudson, but instead, Rev. Hudson stepped forward to face the net. Mr. and Mrs. Morris have two sons living, John and Curtis; three daughers, Kathleen, Liz and Virginia, who lives at the home, and 18 grandchildren. Mr. Morris says he enjoyed watching the volleyballs fly through the air, but as far as flying is concerned, he's "never been on an airplane and doesn't intend to go.
